AN EDUCATIONAL CENTER

There is hardly a month that does not record some important educational convention, conference, meeting or rally for Statesboro. The teachers in their half dozen different organizations, the various programs of school and college meetings always include Statesboro. The Bulloch capital in addition to being a fine town with a fine local school system has the only college in this whole more-than-a-third of the state, the South Georgia Teachers College. The president of the college is this year the president of the Georgia Education Association. Before he was head of the association, however, the school meetings gravitated to Statesboro; now they have the habit of centering there. Statesboro is a good educational center for which sentiment for better education, in professional way, by teachers, and by students through the citizen supporters of schools and colleges, radiates.

(The above editorial appeared the Savannah Morning News, Sunday, February 7.)

PROUD OF BOTH

The 1932 basketball team was one of the best that ever competed for S.G.T.C., and winners of the Georgia State Conference tournament deserve more than one paragraph in the George-Anne and if it were possible a special issue would be devoted to the team. The faculty, the students, and alumni are proud of "Crock" Smiths 1932 basketball team.

Anyone connected with the college who attended church services at the First Baptist Church Sunday evening or who has had the opportunity of hearing the splendid program given throughout this section by the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. of the college will again feel proud. The speeches, the presentation, the programs are fine and the faculty, students, and alumni are proud of R.L.Winburns Sunday troupe.

ANTI-GOARDING

The young people of America and particularly those of the high school and college age can help create public opinion toward renewed business confidence which will start the wheels of industry again.

Only about one fourth of the country's working capital is in circulation. Lets talk up the governments Reconstruction Finance Anti-Hoarding Drive.

The college polishes--perhaps; but what does it polish? It can only polish what the individual brings with him.
